

PREHISTORIC MAN HAD BEST HEALTH

"Stomach Man" Makes Some
Telling Blows at Modern-Day Methods of Living.

THEORIES STIR COMMENT

PEOPLE OF ZION WIDELY INTER-ESTED IN WORK HERE.

The theories of the Cooper "stomach man" and his belief that the stomach is the keystone of health, have aroused widespread comment in Salt Lake City. When interviewed yesterday, another Cooper idea was advanced, which is that health is caused by stomach trouble and nothing else. People in all walks of life—the lawyer, business man, clerk and the man who works with his hands—they have all come to me since I have been meeting the people of this city at Smith's "Busy Corner" drug store, Main and Second Street, and in practically every instance nothing has been the matter with them but stomach trouble.

"What is the cause? Modern-day methods of living. The prehistoric man never had stomach trouble, nor nervous prostration, nor kidney or liver complaint, consumption or rheumatism. Why not? Because he lived simply. He was like an animal. The relic of the prehistoric man exists today in the wild man, the savage, the cannibal. Physically they are exactly like animals and they doctor themselves in the same way as the beasts. If they feel anything is wrong with their bodies they do not dose themselves with drugs. Nature—great all-wise nature—drives them into the fields to find healing roots and herbs. Instinct watches over the animals and they couldn't live the life the civilized man of today lives if they wanted to."

"The medicine which I have been introducing here, and which seems to have become so popular, is prepared on exactly that principle. It contains nothing but roots, herbs and barks, and it forces Nature to do the real work. Although my remedy is primarily a stomach treatment, it is a tonic and general health builder for the whole system."

ZELAYA DOWN AND OUT AS DICTATOR

through the streets, shouting for the United States, Estrada and the revolution. Held in control for years by the strong hand of Zelaya, the people have been quick to break through the restraint when it was certain that the dictator could not arrest the tide that had risen around him. In the later days Zelaya has resorted to all known tricks and contrivances to hold the people of Managua with him. Reports of a government victory at Rama have been freely circulated, and rumors that a massacre of revolutionists had occurred were allowed to spread unchallenged and undisturbed. It finally became known that these reports were without a shadow of truth, and they rebound like a boomerang.

First one deputy and then another took up the denunciation of Zelaya in the chamber, and later the public places, and soon throughout the city demonstrations were being held in which open revolt was voiced.

Last night, however, a pro-Zelaya demonstration marked the session of congress, but this had no effect outside the walls of the house. The rising was more a matter of bravado than ever, and the president decided discretion to be the better part of valor and withdrew from office.

Dictator's Career.

Jose Santos Zelaya has been in command in the republic of Nicaragua for sixteen years. He ruled with a strong hand and has been called the stormy petrel of Central America. He has always been noted for his cunning and bravery and was remarkable, too, for his ability to surround himself with a group of men who were without any other ambition than to follow him. As a consequence, Zelaya in later years was an absolute dictator.

He amassed wealth by seeking to himself a large percentage of the profits from concessions and by forming a group of men who were without any other ambition than to follow him. Zelaya belongs to the aristocracy of his country.

His success was due more to the sword than to the peaceful methods of other dictators. In the 15 years of his rule he has been the most hated man in South or Central America, the wonder is that he managed to keep so long at making so many enemies. Innumerable attempts have been made against his life, and in these emergencies his bravery has stood him in good stead.

A Pupil of Barrios.

When a comparatively young man Zelaya began an agitation against the government and his actions became so violent that he was expelled. He went to Guatemala, then ruled by Barrios, and there received the training that fitted him for his subsequent career. In the army of Barrios he obtained service and after fighting for a number of years he became a band of insurgents. He gathered strength as he went, and his final battle won for him the presidency.

Zelaya's wealth is said to be enormous. He owns coffee plantations and collects on the coffee trade in many industries. The present revolt in Nicaragua began early last month and came as a surprise to many. Zelaya, in which the execution of the Americans, Cannon and Groce, was the most serious feature.

Murder Charge Still Stands.

Washington, Dec. 16.—News of the resignation of President Zelaya of Nicaragua, was received with evident satisfaction at the state department and elsewhere here tonight, but no comment could be elicited from any responsible office of the administration.

It can be said with confidence that Zelaya's resignation, welcome as it is, has by no means removed him from the attention of this government. Secretary Knox's recent letter of dismissal to Senator Rogers, Nicaragua charge d'affaires, plainly indicated the intention of the United States to hold Zelaya and his circle of advisers personally responsible for the killing of Groce and Cannon and nobody here tonight believes that Zelaya's retirement materially mitigates his personal peril as a defendant before the bar at which Mr. Knox has charged him substantially on the charge of murder in the first degree.

COOTON SPINNERS DOWN IN SHORT TIME

Raw Material Forced Up to Such High Price That the Trade Is Suffering.

MORE POPULAR EACH DAY

DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH INTER-ESTED IN LONDON'S POOR.

BY HERBERT TEMPLE.

London, Dec. 16.—The cotton trade is once more suffering acutely from the action of American cotton spinners. The material, who, possessing a short crop, have been able to force up the price. Cotton spinners, not only in Lancashire, but in the United States and on the continent, have been unable to procure their mills full time profitably, and short time running has been resorted to. By reason of the international federation of master cotton spinners this short time movement is now more general than at previous occasions, when Lancashire had to fight against a cotton corner, and the users of American cotton throughout the world are making common cause against the present conditions which are hampering trade.

C. W. Macara, president of the Industrial cotton committee, at Manchester, yesterday received from the president of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association a letter stating that the consumption of cotton in the southern territory of America at present is 20 per cent less than it was this time last year.

All Suffering, Alike.

In an interview Mr. Macara said that from a point published in the press the public might judge that Lancashire was the only cotton center suffering from depression. Nothing could be more erroneous. Every cotton center is suffering alike, and the reason was that an anticipated short crop of cotton and the action of speculators had advanced the price of raw cotton nearly 50 per cent and had made the manufacture of cotton goods almost impossible. The question of tariff did not enter into the subject in any degree. Only by the continuance of short-time running could the evils at present existing be averted.

A telegram received here from Milan last night states that as an outcome of the understanding with the English cotton industry Italian mill owners, who use American raw cotton to the extent of 3,000,000 spindles, have agreed to shut down one day weekly during the next ten weeks. A further step towards restricting the cotton output is the formation of a syndicate there, with a capital of $800,000, which will guarantee surplus stocks with the banks so as to reduce by about one-half the actual average production of nine pounds per spindle.

Popular American Duchess.

The Duchess of Marlborough, who is daily becoming more popular in London because of her increasing personal efforts to improve the condition of the poor, and especially of the children of the slums, the other day presided at a meeting at her residence, Sunderland House, Curzon street, in aid of Dr. Barnardo's homes. In an address she said that it was a terrible fact that every day the number of unfit and uncared-for children, and the percentage of parents morally and physically incapable of providing for their children was growing to an alarming rate. She thought, she thought, to those who hold the opinion that to take away children from their parents was to undermine parental authority, was that no mother who was fit to bring them up would voluntarily give them up.

Drink, unemployment and the conditions of tenement life were to some extent responsible for unfit parents, but the root of the evil lay deeper, and to the special militia was the want of practical and technical education in the schools. Young people were taught to read and write, but the schools were unable to make them healthy and useful. The duchess, who is a devoted worker for the poor, said that the children of the slums, the other day presided at a meeting at her residence, Sunderland House, Curzon street, in aid of Dr. Barnardo's homes. In an address she said that it was a terrible fact that every day the number of unfit and uncared-for children, and the percentage of parents morally and physically incapable of providing for their children was growing to an alarming rate. She thought, she thought, to those who hold the opinion that to take away children from their parents was to undermine parental authority, was that no mother who was fit to bring them up would voluntarily give them up.

Ancient Colonnade Destroyed.

Indignation was aroused among artists and antiquaries some time ago by the destruction of the north side of Bath street, Bath, with its fine Georgian colonnade, in connection with the rebuilding of the Grand Pump Room hotel. It was hoped that the act of vandalism had been averted, but yesterday morning a firm of local contractors, acting under orders from the owners of the property, commenced the work of demolition.

The Royal Institute of British Architects, the Society of Antiquaries, the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings and the National Trust for Places of Historic Interest had all opposed the destruction. In reply to a criticism, the Bath corporation issued an official statement defending their proposed action.

To diminish the evil of the existing condition of child slavery in England, the British Constitution association at its annual conference at Cambridge proposed that an act be passed by parliament raising the age for leaving the public schools to 15 for children of both sexes.

S. H. Butcher, M. P., thought it could be carried out without any serious disturbance. He mentioned that of the 180,000 children who now left school between the ages of 13 and 14 only 40,000 carried on their education to some extent in evening schools. This left 140,000 who absolutely ceased to learn anything after the age of 14.

There was surely a pathetic irony in the fact that for a few years in life, when they were least fitted for labor, they had to follow some employment, and for the rest of their lives they were either unemployed or unemployable. For the most part, indeed, these boys were in the downward grade for the rest of their existence. That was an evil so enormous that it was perfectly clear that some remedy for it must be adopted.

Lady Darwin also appealed for some improvement in our education system which would tend to place young men in a position to earn a livelihood and furnish an efficient antidote for pauperism. Boys now were turned out into the world having learned little or nothing, and forgetting even the little knowledge they had gained. In such circumstances they drifted inevitably to unskilled labor, and often ended by becoming both unemployed and unemployable. She agreed with a Cambridge schoolmaster who thought that two-fifths of school time should be devoted to practical work.

A trial of Piper Hildesheim chewing tobacco is the argument that makes it popular with particular people.

ROCK ISLAND HAD TO PAY OVER $7,000,000

New York, Dec. 16.—The common stock of the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad, recently purchased by B. F. Yocum and his associates from the Chicago Rock Island & Pacific railroad, cost the buyers $7,500,000, in gross amount, $7,000,000 net.

Since the Rock Island 5 per cent bonds issued to make the original purchase of St. Louis & San Francisco require their redemption at $7,750,000, Wall street learned today that it had been necessary for the Rock Island interests to make up a difference of $750,000 between the cost of these bonds and the cash received for the sale of the "Prisco common stock collateral" under the bonds.
